Who are we?

IRSCA Gifted Education is a non-profit organization that promotes and supports the development of gifted people in all fields: science, arts, management and leadership. IRSCA Gifted Education trains and develops human resources capable of solving the very complex problems of our times.

Romania now goes through a phase of “brain” migration. The authorities didn’t take into consideration the effects of this phenomenon and treated it with the shallowness characteristic for election promises.

Our initiative brings a National Gifted Education Program, an educational system oriented towards the development of individual capacity and at the same time, their orientation to the acute needs of national development and to bringing solutions to burning national and international issues. The need of such an initiative is obvious; these modern educational systems have already been successfully implemented in well-developed countries and have consequently immensely contributed to their technological and economical development.

At present IRSCA Gifted Education has the available experts and activities oriented towards the setup of the gifted education system in Romania. IRSCA Gifted Education has the connections, international know-how and collaborations in the gifted education network that will allow IRSCA to assist the process through know-how, teaching technologies and best practices transfer from the international gifted network.

IRSCA Gifted Education has already obtained the recognition at an international level of its efforts to start a National Gifted Education Program in Romania and already formed the partnerships that allow the realization of the program with the support of the most important international institution at present, the World Council for Gifted and Talented Children (WCGTC).

The Board of Trustees of the International Consortium of support for gifted education in Romania is made up of numerous international personalities active in the education of gifted and talented children: Den-Mo Tsai, Taiwan, current president of WCGTC; Klaus K. Urban, Germany, ex-president of WCGTC; Barbara Clarck, USA, ex-president of WCGTC; Sandra Kaplan, USA; Erika Landau, Israel; Joice Van Tassel-Baska, USA; Johanna Raffan, UK, secretary of European Council for High Ability; Joseph Renzulli and Sally Reis, USA, directors of NAGC; Taisir Subhi, United Arab Emirates and Richard A. Boolootian, USA.

Under a private initiative the experts of IRSCA Gifted Education launch in 2005 the Strategy for a National Gifted Education Program. Following the strategy, several programs were initiated: a Gifted Education Pilot Project, the setup of a network of charter and feeder schools around the country with the help of the Ministry of Education and Research, and the setup of two educational establishments: the National Academy for Gifted Children (NAGC) and the International Academy for Gifted Children (IAGC).

What is the strategy?

The need to form highly qualified professionals for Romania has become acute. In order to educate and regain the specialists we propose the National Gifted Education Program, which performs on specific methodologies in gifted education and pursues a Brain Regain program.

The national strategy advises on short for:

A. The setup of a Gifted Education Pilot Project<sup>3</sup> This project involves:

Testing and professional formation of professors and psychologists in the gifted education methodologies; Testing of gifted and talented children on their level of giftedness and on the subject of their natural gift. The testing process shall take place in the first national psychological testing center; Know-how and teaching best practices transfer from the international gifted network to the national needs and specifics by localization (adaptation); Setting up international partnerships with other gifted education centers around the world; Organizing a competence and expert network where young people carrying out studies or having graduated highly regarded universities around the world can enter and place their work offer and expertise as well as support their fast integration in the Romanian economy and more.

B. The Setup of Charter and Feeder schools with the help of the Ministry of Education and Research. Charter and Feeder schools have the objective of feeding the NAGC with exceptional children from all over the country.

C. The setup of a National Academy for Gifted Children.

The NAGC functions on Public and Private Funding from Ministry of Education and Research, the fundraising efforts of IRSCA Gifted Education and the Romanian Consortium.

NAGC is a Public School that offers classes to exceptional children from all over the country, based on no tuition and has professors of Internationally reputed Universities. It educates top specialists on national needs of development and is concentrating on realizing Know-how and modern technologies transfers.

D. The setup of an International Academy for Gifted Children.

The IAGC functions on private funding from the Romanian Consortium. IAGC is organized as a private School, tuition based. The Children are coming from all over Europe and they are taught on gifted education curricula and gifted education methodologies by professors of Internationally reputed Universities

IAGC seeks to form Business Incubators from private funds, to give an impulse to student initiatives in entrepreneurship and national transfers of competencies by establishing a Brain Regain Center.
